FERTILITY PRESERVATION

Females

You may not be ready to have children now but may be considering your future fertility because of age related concerns or because of an illness that may affect your future fertility. We offer treatments to give you the best chance in the future of a successful pregnancy.

These include:

- Egg freezing
- Embryo freezing (if pre-approved by the Ministry of Health)

During an initial consultation with one of our fertility specialists, we will design a personalised treatment plan based on your medical history and specific needs and requirements. During your treatment you will be closely monitored by ultrasound to determine the best time to collect your eggs. Following the egg collection, your eggs or embryos will be frozen in our state-of-the-art facilities and stored safely until the time is right for you to continue your journey with us.

Males

We understand that you may be concerned about preserving your ability to have your own biological children now or in the future. You may have general health or specific related concerns that may affect your sperm and so we offer advice and treatments to preserve your fertility. These include:

- Sperm freezing
- Sperm Analysis

A sperm analysis is a simple and straightforward way for us to advise you on the health of your sperm. As part of your analysis we provide you with a report and if needed our urologist Dr Adil Khaliel, can offer his specialised guidance and advice.

We offer sperm freezing to enable you to preserve your fertility. You will come to our centre which has been designed with your needs in mind, making your treatment a comfortable and supportive experience. We will freeze your sperm in our state-of-the-art facilities and store it safely until the time is right for you.
